Calhoun Named Executive By PM Vacation Bureau

JOHN E. CALHOUN, a native of Philadelphia and long-time visitor to the Poconos, has been named executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, it was announced last night.

Calhoun was introduced by President William J. Altier at the annual report membership dinner held at Skyline Inn, Mt. Pocono.

Altier called Calhoun's appointment "another progressive step" by the bureau in its goal to make the Poconos the leading all-year resort area in the country.

Calhoun has been visiting in the area since his father established a summer camp for boys at Pocono Pines in 1923. He is a graduate of Temple University, with a bachelor of science in education, and captained the Temple and Penn Athletic Club swimming teams.

Calhoun began his administrative training with the E. I. DuPont Co. as a sales correspondent. During World War II, he was an officer in the Navy with duty aboard a cruiser in the Pacific Fleet.

Calhoun served as an aide to Dr. Ralph Bunche during the Palestine truce negotiations and was executive officer of the Naval Reserve Officer Training Unit at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Later, he served as administrative planning officer on a North Atlantic Treaty Organization staff in London and his last post was as director of personnel of the staff of the Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, Adm. Robert L. Dennison, with headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

Calhoun is married to the former Marjorie Joan Werner, of Phillipsburg, N. J., and the couple have two daughters, Joan, 15 and Ann, 11.

Tiros 5 Soars In Perfect Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Tiros 5 weather satellite joined the earlier Tiros 5 in orbit Tuesday to make a double-barreled photographic assault on hurricanes, typhoons and other storm systems which might develop over a great area of the globe.

Excellent quality pictures relayed by the new mechanical weatherman in early orbits demonstrated it is ready to train its cameras on Daisy, the season's next tropical storm, and is prepared to help predict the weather for next week's scheduled space flight of U.S. astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Tiros 6 soared aloft aboard a towering Thor-Delta rocket which blasted into the pre-dawn darkness from Cape Canaveral at 3:53 a.m. All three stages fired with precision and drilled the satellite into a near-perfect orbit ranging from 425 to 442 miles above the earth.

Space Winning Streak

The performance continued two of this nation's most successful space winning streaks. Six straight Tiros satellites have wheeled into orbit and the reliable Douglas-built Delta has boosted 11 consecutive satellites into space.

On its second global pass Tuesday, Tiros 6 aimed its two television cameras at the Middle East. They snapped a series of 64 pictures, stored them on magnetic tape and relayed them to earth as the satellite spun over the Point Mugu, Calif., tracking station.

The exceptional pictures clearly showed cloud cover and easily distinguishable landmarks of these areas: the Nile River and a portion of the Red Sea; southern Greece and the Peloponnese Peninsula; northern Italy, the Adriatic Sea and part of Yugoslavia; Ethiopia and the Gulf of Aden, and the Mediterranean Sea and surrounding countries.

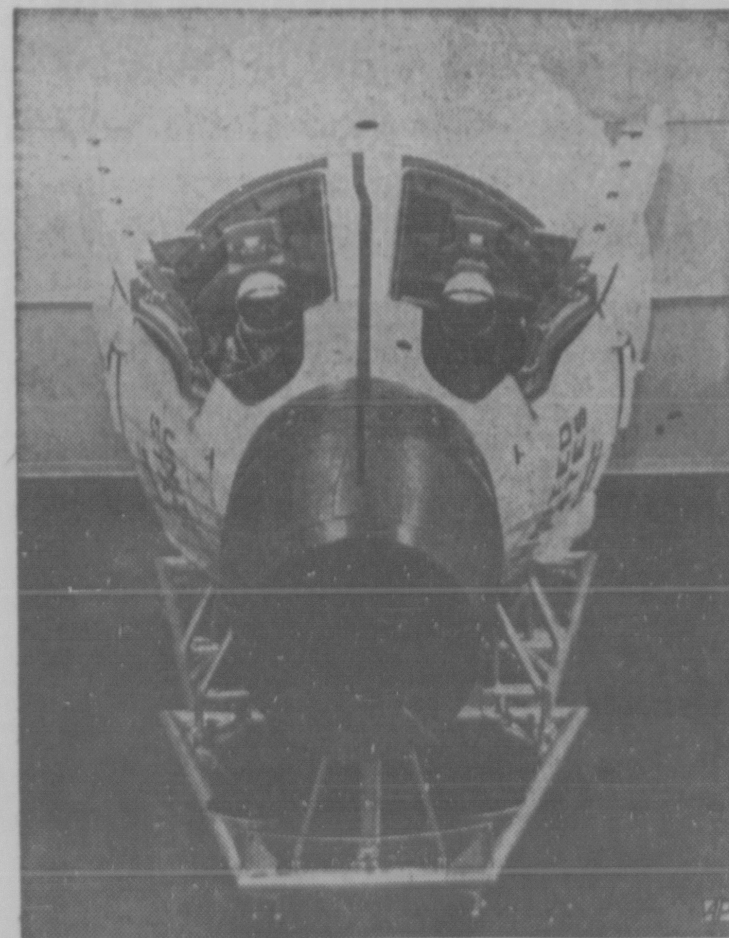

Two In Operation

With Tiros 5 and Tiros 6 both operating, the United States for the first time has two working weather satellites up at one time. The first four Tiros vehicles have launched last June 19.

Tiros 6 actually was launched two months earlier than intended to assure satellite photographic coverage during the peak hurricane activity in the Caribbean and Atlantic, normally late September and early October.

The two satellites are traveling on similar paths about 30 minutes apart.

Meteorologists hope pictures taken of the hurricane breeding grounds will help chart the origin, formation and movement of the destructive storms and perhaps lead to a means of eventually controlling them.

Recommends $1.4 Billion Less:

House Committee Asks Drastic Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended Tuesday a cut of nearly $1.4 billion in new funds for foreign aid and labeled some administration estimates of needs as "pie-in-the-sky figures."

There are strong indications that the 19 per cent cut will be sustained by the House when it passes the money bill later this week.

This would provide $5,956,852,000 in funds for economic and military aid during the current fiscal year where President Kennedy had asked for $7,335,029,000 and Congress had authorized up to $7.1 billion. The fiscal year ends June 30.

Last year the House cut more than $1 billion from the administration's foreign aid request but the Senate restored better than half the cut and a large percentage of the Senate increase was retained in the House-Senate compromise on the bill.

The cut this year was almost as deep as the $1.5 billion predicted by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the aid money bill, when his subcommittee began work several months ago.

Actually, Passman's subcommittee cut military spending from $1.5 billion to $1 billion but the full committee boosted this figure to $1.3 billion—a reduction of 14 per cent.

However, the committee retained criticisms of military aid by the subcommittee, which charged that the military aid program had received too much money in recent years.

The report said one nation had been given enough rifles and carbines to provide two for every soldier it had.

Even with the restoration by the full committee, there is a chance this cut may stir up a fight on the floor. The House last year restored all but $100 million of the cut in military assistance.

The Appropriations Committee said there was enough unspent money from previous appropriations to run the aid program for about 25 months even if no money was provided this year. Most of this carryover, however, has been obligated for spending.

The committee also was cautiously critical of some phases of the aid program and referred to some estimates as "pie-in-the-sky figures."

"An indeterminate but not inconsequential element of the program is the cost to borrow money which is so freely given away. It is a one-way street—the goods or services go out, the U.S. Treasury pays the bill, and the U.S. receives nothing of a tangible nature in return," it added.

The program for this year would provide economic aid for 73 nations and seven foreign territories and possessions and military aid for 58 countries.

U.N. 17th Session Begins

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly opened its 17th session Tuesday with election of a Western-supported president.

It braced for sharp debate in the weeks ahead on a host of controversial issues, including seating of Red China proposed by the Soviet Union.

Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, 69, veteran Pakistan diplomat who served the old League of Nations, was elected president. He won 72 votes to 27 for G. P. Malalasekera of Ceylon, who was supported by the Soviet bloc.

While pickets protesting resumption of nuclear tests marched in the sunshine outside U.N. headquarters, delegates from all over the world—many in colorful Oriental and African robes—filled into the great blue and gold assembly hall. They included more than 40 foreign ministers.

Mongi Slim of Tunisia, president of the 16th session, called them to order at 3:32 p.m. The election followed the traditional minute of silent meditation or prayer.

Applause rippled through the hall when Slim announced the outcome of the vote, and invited Zafrulla Khan to come to the green marble podium to assume his post.

In quick order the assembly then elected to membership four newly independent countries — Rwanda and Burundi from the African continent and Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago from the Caribbean area.

That raised total U.N. membership to 108, compared with 51, at the birth of the United Nations in 1945.

The assembly adjourned at 5:44 p.m. until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Inter-American Alliance Urged In Cuban Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was urged Tuesday to endorse an inter-American military alliance aimed at crushing Communist Cuba — a Soviet satellite one Senate leader branded an ominous threat to the entire Western Hemisphere.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., proposed an organization similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization plus recognition of a Cuban government in exile in two resolutions submitted for Senate approval.

He said the exile government could begin the job the Cuban refugees wish to do, which is to free Cuba from the dictatorship of Fidel Castro.

Dirksen Concurs

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, joined in the running congressional debate over Soviet military supplies flowing into Cuba with a statement in the Congressional Record.

The developments came against this backdrop:

1. Announcement by State Department press officer Lincoln White that all Latin-American foreign ministers or their representatives, except Cuba's, are expected to attend a meeting opening here Oct. 2 on the Cuban situation.
2. New economic and travel restrictions to further quarantine Cuba may be considered.
3. Continued work by three congressional committees to complete by Wednesday a single declaration of what Congress feels should be done about the Cuban military.
4. A House speech prepared by Rep. A. Paul Kitchin, D-N.C., claiming that a U.S. blockade of Cuba would be respected by most Latin-American, Far Eastern and NATO countries.
5. Smathers' resolutions were referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.
6. Urging their adoption, he said possibly some military action to oust Cuban communism would be required.

James S. Bunnell, president of the Monroe County board, will be in charge of the directors' convention which will open with scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Elmer Meissner, pastor of Tannersville United Church of Christ.

John C. Litts, county superintendent, will greet the directors and Harry J. Drennan, secretary, will read the minutes of the last annual meeting.

A. C. Sprout, associate executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State School Directors Assn., will speak on the 1962 legislative program and Dr. Bereday will speak on the comparative education.

The session will close with committee reports and election of officers.

These include business education under chairmanship of

He said the danger, which he called an ominous threat, is now on "the very doorstep of the United States."

Accuse The West Of Military Collusion

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government shifted its propaganda campaign on Berlin into high gear Tuesday with a charge of military collusion between France and West Germany "for revision of the results of World War II."

A 2,000-word statement issued through the official news agency Tass said results of the recent visit of French President Charles de Gaulle with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer show an urgent need for "the conclusion of a German peace treaty and normalization on this basis of the situation in West Berlin."

No deadline was set.

Again the Russians threatened that, if the Western powers do not go along, the Soviet Union and its Communist partners alone will sign a treaty with Communist East Germany, "with all the ensuing consequences."

The 'Consequences'

The consequences might include an East German effort to block the roads, airlines and waterways linking the citizens and Western garrisons of West Berlin with West Germany, 110 miles away.

The statement said the urgency of the situation has been heightened by De Gaulle's visit with Adenauer in Bonn, which emphasized "the anti-Soviet trend of their bloc."

It declared French ruling circles agreed to the establishment of a Bonn-Paris axis with the "secret hope that they would be able to take a leading place in this military alliance, to secure a leading role for France in the capitalist world."

'Predatory West'

"Whatever the plans of the French politicians in the Bonn-Paris axis," it added, "their lot is to trail behind their stronger and more predatory West German partner, to follow in the wake of the revenge-seekers from the Rhine."

"A disclaimer from Adenauer was ignored. The chancellor declared in a newspaper statement last week that talk about a Bonn-Paris axis was "false, old and even dangerous terminology." He said all European countries are parts of a greater union and all are "striving toward a common center to which they belong."

The Soviet statement complained that De Gaulle's talk of a Soviet menace during his six-day visit to West Germany was intended to veil aggressive French-German plans.

29 More Escape Under Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Twenty-nine East Germans reached freedom through the longest tunnel ever bored under the Berlin wall, West Berlin authorities announced Tuesday.

There was no indication the Communists had uncovered the underground escape route.

The group which escaped last Friday night was the largest mass flight through the wall since it was built 13 months ago.

The previous high was the escape of 28 through a tunnel last January.

Squads of West Berlin youngsters toiled for weeks to bore the elaborate tunnel into East Berlin under Bernauer Strasse, scene of many dramatic escapes. Only Monday night three youths escaped through a cellar in the same area.

Existence of the tunnel was kept secret—even after the weekend escape—because it was hoped more refugees could take the same route to the West.

Rains Flood Tunnel

But heavy rains flooded the tunnel on Monday. Efforts to pump it dry were fruitless and the plan to bring more people through it under the wall was abandoned.

Heinrich Albertz, the West Berlin senator for interior affairs, disclosed the mass escape at a news conference. He described the tunnel as the longest ever built under the wall. But he declined to give the length or many other details because he said he did not want to help the Communists find it.

Albertz said the tunnel was the result of "painstaking and patient work by young people whom we must respect."

The East German regime has denounced tunneling under the wall from the West as a provocation against what they call their state border.

But Albertz repeated that the West Berlin government does not regard such enterprise as illegal.

The city authorities kept the successful refugees hidden. They were not taken to the Marienfelde refugee center because their presence there would have disclosed there had been a break.

Albertz declined to give any breakdown on the composition of the group. He said the authorities were anxious not to give the Reds any tips that could lead to trial and punishment of persons implicated on the other side of the wall. Sentences of up to life imprisonment have been imposed by Communist courts on East Germans caught helping refugees escape.

West Berlin police cordoned off a coal dump Tuesday night at the junction of Bernauer Strasse and Schwedter Strasse. This indicated the probable site of the tunnel.

The coal dump is near the house through which the three boys escaped Monday night. Two were 15 years old, one only 13.

Tension, which had subsided along the wall, rose again.

West Berlin police and Red border guards fought a tear gas battle in the northern district of Reinickendorf.

The East German guards were infuriated by a loudspeaker truck of the West Berlin city administration broadcasting news into the Communist sector.

Pike L&P Asks Lower Power Rate

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pike County Light and Power Co., Nyaack, N. Y., asked the Public Utility Commission Tuesday for a rate decrease for 1,814 residential customers in the Matamoras and Milford areas of Pike County.

The company said its cost of supply has been lowered and it wants to pass the savings — approximately $17,600 a year—to its home customers.

All except 29 residential customers would have rates reduced, effective Nov. 5.

The 29 customers are in the minimum use class. Their rates would be increased from $1.20 to $1.25 for 19 instead of nine kilowatt hours.

Battle Of Antietam

Bloodiest Day Of Civil War

(Editor's Note — Peggy Bancroft, Daily Record correspondent, traveled to Antietam for the anniversary of the Battle of Antietam of the Civil War. Here is her feelings of the bloodiest one-day battle which occurred on Sept. 15, 1862 — 100 years ago.)

ANTIETAM — A single "boom" from a Union cannon at 2:15 p.m. on September 15, 1862, turned back the clock to the year 1862, and the Battle of Antietam — the bloodiest single day's battle in the Civil War — began.

The re-enactment of the Battle of Antietam took place in a cup-shaped sector where the "Bloody Lane" — now a winding macadam roadway, bisects one corner. As 25,000 spectators from all parts of the United States watched, munching hot dogs, dripping ice cream in the 90 degree sunshine, and quieting children from the ages of three months on, Union and Confederate forces clashed in a dramatic "grand re-enactment" of the battle near Sharpsburg, Md.

The cannonade began near the historic Dunker Church which played such an important part in the battle, and continued from strategic positions in the woods. Suddenly, a cornfield at the extreme right of the battlefield, half a mile away, rustled and swayed, and the cornstalks parted to reveal battle flags of the Confederate battalions. The sun danced and caught on the gleaming swords and muskets as the soldiers advanced, marching with precision to drum beats which came from a drum carried by a little drummer boy. Generals Rodes and Anderson were moving into position at Bloody Lane, tearing down rail fences and attacking them to prepare for the impending Union attack. Outposts moved out to return fire from Weber's blueclad brigade which was advancing across the bowl of the "cup", firing as it came.

Becomes Alive
Every field, every mountain edge, every gully came alive with the movements of soldiers. The Union men advanced, with one brigade, new in battle, breaking and running to the rear. An attempt to re-group them failed. Suddenly, from the midst of the audience on the hillside, with a startling suddenness, came Kershaw's brigade of gray-clad men, bagpipes playing, bugles urging them on. This increased the confusion on the field, and the Union attack was repulsed.

The possession of the field changed hands again and again during the afternoon. As the Union men retreated, the Confederates tore shoes from the "dead" men on the field. Sharpshooters in trees fired dramatically. Soldiers dropped and soon covered the field. (One fortunately fell on his back with his hat over his face, and napped for the remainder of the battle.)

Cannon fire was thunderous and continuous, and the field was often obscured by the drifting smoke. A dog in the audience was so startled when Kershaw's brigade advanced from behind him that he fairly flew up the hill, dragging his leash, pursued by his mistress.

Many Attended
There were high school groups among the spectators, as well as busloads of smaller children. There were families, complete with picnic lunches, and one man balanced five plates of fried chicken, one atop the other, as he climbed the bleachers while the action went on nearby.

It was interesting to note that the whole audience cheered as reinforcements appeared on the field of battle — no matter whether they wore the blue or the gray. When the piercing Confederate yell came as the Rebels charged from the cornfield, an echoing yell from the stands greeted them. Nobody seemed to favor one side or the other — there were no "hard feelings" — no evidence of the antagonism some religious leaders feel might be the end result of "re-opening the wounds." The crowd was there because they were interested in seeing what happened in this country on that spot one hundred years ago — not because they carried a grudge.

It was a history lesson in dramatic form, complete with sound effects. It went on for three hours, and it was colorful, touching, and a reminder of the horrors of war. There were moments of unrehearsed humor and moments of glory. Troops marched miles, wheeled, and marched back again. Horses raced across the fields and back, adding a special touch to the scene. Above all was the drifting smoke and all around was the echoing of cannon and rifle fire.

In the audience were small boys in Confederate caps, carrying everything from Indian tom-toms to a full-sized sword. There were sunburned babies and excited children and interested adults — all of whom waited with impatience; stood in reverent silence as the Star Spangled Banner was sung; listened to the invocation; thrilled to the Grand Review; watched with special interest the various phases; and stored away in memory the picture of action at Antietam.

Not everyone shared the excitement. In Gettysburg, some two hours away from the battlefield, a resident was asked the distance to Antietam.

Never Heard of It
"Never heard of it!" The distance to Hagerstown? "Never heard of that, either!"

And at Boonsboro, some six miles from the battlefield, a passerby asked an old woman if she were going to attend the re-enactment.

"Not me! I'll just sit here on my porch, — and I can hear the cannons from here!"

But some 25,000 people did more than listen for the cannon boom. And they'll long remember names like Roulette Farm, Mamma Farm, Dunker Church, McClellan, Lee, and Bloody Lane. They were at Antietam.

Aims And Purposes Of YF Posed At Mountain Meet

GREENTOWN — "Getting Ready for the Countdown" was the theme of a film shown to the Greentown-Newfoundland-South Sterling Youth Fellowship during the opening meeting of the Fall season at Hemlock Grove Church Sunday night.

The film posed the questions, "where are we going?" and "what are we going to do?" and led to a discussion of aims and purposes of the YF.

It was noted that the goals of the group are to plan programs of interest to all youth between the ages of 12 and 18; to give friendship and encouragement to new members; to unite into a group that acts the way a Youth Fellowship should act; to support the educational fund of the community; to grow in the Christian faith by deepening the understanding of Christianity and its purpose; to provide discussion directed to the common problems faced by YF members.

Officers were introduced as follows: presidents, Joan Bancroft, Shirley Smith, and Lucille Marro; recording secretary, Connie Keiter; corresponding secretary, Bliss Arneberg; treasurer, Barry Kistler; MYFund treasurer, Bonnie Price.

RESPONSE!

Newspaper Advertising Brings Reader Response...through Buying Action!

More buying action results from newspaper advertising because of the atmosphere of believability. You've heard people say, "I know it's true, it's in the papers." The printed word has always been accepted as more honest and binding.

Newspapers report facts; other media offer entertainment. Your advertising in an atmosphere of believability is bound to induce more "want-to-buy" action than that framed in fiction or entertainment.

Newspapers offer another vital element—an atmosphere of timeliness and urgency. This sense of immediacy fosters "here-and-now" sales action that no other print medium can match.

If it's a question of consumer response—newspapers are the answer!

CAS Commended By State

TWENTY-FIVE of the 27 members of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania were present for the opening Fall meeting held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday noon, including all of the ten men on the board.

Welcomed as new board members were Mrs. Richard A. Primrose, Mrs. Harvey T. Pullen, Edward Rahn and Alfred J. Schaefer.

There was also heartening news on the agency evaluation by the State Department of Welfare, commending the agency for its accomplishments and giving official approval.

Rev. Joseph N. Carr gave a resume of the report of the evaluation together with recommendation for future developments.

Commended were the formal agreement entered into with the County Institution District, the strides in protective service, follow through work with parents and the progress toward establishing a family service which surveys indicated were a prime local need.

In this conjunction, advertisements have been inserted in professional journals seeking a case worker for family counseling. In the meantime, the present staff is carrying on as much family counseling as time permits.

Charles Jones, executive secretary, announced that Aurilla Planchock of Pocono Summit, would replace Frances Steprow as case worker. Mrs. Steprow's resignation became effective Sept. 1.

Mrs. Planchock, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State College, has been an elementary teacher and is the mother of four children.

Recommendations

Rev. Carr's report also included the recommendations of the state evaluation, including a written policy defining the services offered, continuing recruitment program for foster parents, the establishment of small group homes for adolescents, periodic review of personnel policy and adjustment of salary scales up to the state level or those of neighboring communities. These recommendations are now being studied by specific committees.

Mrs. Horace Butler, president, presided at the meeting when Mrs. William Wells, chairman of the house committee, reported on the moving of the agency offices to the former Girl Scout House on Sarah St., urging all board members to visit the new headquarters.

The treasurer's report was given by Edwin Krawitz. Mrs. Frederick Jones reported on recommendations to be made to the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania for annual and quarterly meetings with member agencies.

Long-time Home Closed

In his report of summer activities, Jones reported that a veteran foster home had been closed after 30 years of service to the children of this community. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Detrick, foster parents since 1932, had cared for a total of 13 children, some in temporary care, some for many years, with understanding and skill. Mrs. Detrick has been maintaining the foster home since the death of Mr. Detrick, but finally requested that it be closed as a foster home. Suitable recognition for faithful service is being studied by the board.

Statistics of the summer activities showed that a total of 51 families with 147 children had been served from May through August, with 56 children of 23 families in placement, the majority in boarding foster homes, and 76 children of 23 families in care in their own homes, mostly under protective care.

There were 13 children discharged during the period, one after graduation to himself, others to their own families.

One Hurt In 2-Car Accident

ONE person was injured in a two-car accident on Route 611, two miles south of Mt. Pocono, at 10:20 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Martha Fenimore, 44, Swiftwater was admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County for treatment of possible fractured ribs and spine injuries. Her condition was reported fair last night.

State Police at Mt. Pocono said Mrs. Fenimore stopped her car in the middle of the three-lane highway to make a left turn into the Silver Gray Inn, which she owns when her vehicle was struck in the rear by one driven by Thomas Woods, 30, Royersford.

Troopers said Woods was attempting to pass a truck at the time. Damages to both cars were estimated at $800.

Motorist 'Darkens' Wind Gap

WIND GAP — Patrick D. McLean, 22, of 41 Washington St., Wind Gap, will be charged with leaving the scene of an accident as the result of a crash which blacked out most of this community for three and one-half hours early yesterday.

Police Chief Leo Reinhart said McLean's car knocked a Metropolitan Edison Co. pole off its base about 1:10 a.m., tore up the lawn of the Stanley Snyder home and broke three telephone service lines.

Reinhart said McLean left the scene and was apprehended at his home about two hours later. The crash resulted in Broadway being closed for about two hours.

Reinhart said McLean told him the brakes of his car locked as he slowed for a curve. The car traveled 258 feet before striking the electric company pole.

New Guidance Service To Schools

MONROE County schools' guidance service has been argued without cost to the taxpayers. Guidance literature in the form of subscriptions to "Our Future Occupation" have been provided by the First-Stroudsburg National Bank.

The publication, issued bi-weekly in pamphlet form, will be issued to each student in the ninth grade of the county's schools, and will be treated as textbook material. It will coordinate the social studies program and occupational phase of guidance service.

First-Stroudsburg National will bear the cost of the publication, an educational product of the Randall Publishing Company, Washington, D.C.

Howard Merring, president of the bank, declared that his bank's investment aims to help local educators meet the recognized need for occupational guidance services.

"It is anticipated," said Merring, "that this pertinent literature will aid the youth of the county in making career choices which will eventually improve the business and industrial climate locally."

Up-To-Date Information

The guidance pamphlets provide the students with up-to-date information compiled by experts on occupations, careers, and part-time jobs, data on colleges, college requirements, scholarships and financial aid available.

Edward J. Wasileski, vice-president of Randall Publishing Company, stated the purpose of the program as follows: to provide a student-oriented rather than a teacher-oriented guidance service; to broaden the horizon of the student in making career choices and extend the scope of understanding of the work; to motivate the student to think ahead about his career choices and the possible plans of achieving it; to give up-to-date information at all times; to help establish rapport between the guidance counselor and the student; and to make the subject more meaningful and interesting from the standpoint of a vocational application of classroom work.

Letter To Parents

In a letter to parents regarding the issuance of pamphlets, the school authorities suggest that parents extend the effectiveness of the literature by reviewing the contents of each issue with their son or daughter. The educators evaluated the use of the pamphlets as being effective in acquainting the students with the many timely educational and vocational opportunities while cultivating an appreciation of the occupations of others.

School authorities who worked with First-Stroudsburg National in instituting the program designated "Your Future Occupation" are John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools; Earl F. Groner, Stroud Union district superintendent; Alfred Munson, supervising principal, Stroud Union; Carl Secor, supervising principal, East Stroudsburg Area Joint School; and Theodore Miller, principal, East Stroudsburg; John C. Volkswagen Truck owners tell us maintenance usually runs them half the cost of their other trucks.

For example, the VW Truck doesn't need anti-freeze. Or flushing. Or draining. Or hoses. Or hose connections. (The engine's air-cooled.)

The VW Truck hardly ever needs oil between changes. It gets 35,000 miles and more on a set of tires. (20,000 is thought good on most other trucks in our class.)

Even VW's big boxy shape is economical. Because you can tote 1,000 lbs. of whatever it is you tote and still have 800 lbs. left over.

(The VW's capacity, 1,830 lbs.)

Loading and unloading is economical and fast, too, through the 4-foot-wide hole-in-the-side.

Then, there's the gas. Suppose you drove your VW 2,000 miles a month, and saved 2¢ a mile. (Which isn't at all unusual from what VW Truck owners tell us.) That's $40 a month to the good. Or $480 a year. Or $1,440 in three years. (Just on gas alone.)

That's a lot of pennies.

'Freedom Is Indivisible'

It is an unfortunate fact that many words of wide connotation are so often used, abused and misused as to lose their basic meaning in the minds of great numbers of people. Two of those words are "capitalism" and "socialism". Ask the next man you meet for a definition of them, and it will be a minor miracle if you get a clear answer.

Henry Hazlitt, in one of his News-week magazine columns, says something that should be far better understood than it actually is. To quote: "Capitalism is merely the name for a system of economic liberty. Under it civil and political liberties flourish and are secure. Under a complete or nearly complete socialism neither economic nor political liberty can exist. Freedom is indivisible. How can there be freedom of press, speech, or assembly when the government owns all the newspapers, presses, and assembly halls? As Leon Trotsky (who knew) wrote in 1937: 'In a country where the sole employer is the State, opposition means death by slow starvation: The old principle: Who does not work shall not eat, has been replaced by a new one: Who does not obey shall not eat.' "

One phrase alone, taken from this quotation, sums up the story: "Freedom is indivisible". Without economic freedom there can be no other basic freedom. This is why capitalism, whatever its faults, has done more good for more people, tangibly and intangibly, than any other system yet devised by man.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Capital Historical Center

Although not many Erie area folks may be aware of it, some of their money is being used to construct a building in Harrisburg which will be the basis for a resurrection of our historical heritage throughout the state.

One block north of the state Capitol Building in Harrisburg, steel workers are already piecing together the lower floors of the building which will officially be known as the William Penn Memorial and Archives Building.

The $9 million structure, which from a distance will look like two buildings instead of one, will be the permanent home for the priceless historical files, documents and treasures still in existence.

When completed it will well be worth the trip to the state's capital to see this new concept in preserving our history from the earliest days when William Penn set out to tame a wilderness.

The museum portion of the Penn Memorial will be a drum-shaped building, six stories high, with escalators rising to each circular floor. Each floor can be divided at intervals of five feet to serve as separate display areas.

Where the Museum is drum-shaped with an inverted pie-pan top, the Archives Building is slab-shaped, much on the idea of the now familiar United Nations building in New York City.

The Archives building, however, unlike the UN structure, has no windows in its entire 20-story height!

Rising from a plot of ground only 40 feet wide by 85 feet deep, the 20-story building could actually be considered the World's largest filing cabinet, both in appearance and operation.

Constructed of steel and masonry, the building is designed to keep 50 percent humidity throughout its interior space to better preserve the priceless old paper documents and books.

The two dissimilar buildings will be connected by a one-story building which will house offices and workshops, as well as bus station for the thousands of tourists and school children who annually pour into Pennsylvania's capital for a look at our historical treasures.

Part of the building will be used for a planetarium, and studios for originating national television programs.

The entire project, under the direction of the General State Authority and the Historical and Museum Commission, will be one of the finest educational buildings in the entire United States upon completion.

We commend the state officials whose ideas culminated in this facility which will be a tribute to our states' founding father, Penn.

The Bay Of Pigs

It is now clear beyond doubt that the venture of the Bay of Pigs was an error. It should not have been started; if started it should have been carried to a logical conclusion which would have meant, ultimately if temporarily, an American occupation of Cuba. The Marines are more thorough than refugees or even reserves.

Ostensibly, we withdrew from the Bay of Pigs expedition after it had started because such an event would have been offensive to the Organization of American States and might have disrupted that body. It might even have been a violation of the Rio Treaty. Also, and this was the gamble, it might have resulted in Russian intervention.

Although five American Ambassadors, reputable and able men, had informed the State Department of the Castro political orientation, neither the White House nor the State Department in either the Eisenhower or Kennedy Administrations acknowledged the Communist affiliation of the Castro Revolution.

Today, there is no doubt on that subject, except apparently in "The New York Times," which obdurately denies an untenable position.

Politicians rarely risk acknowledging errors. They may be used against them. Nevertheless, President Kennedy must sooner or later recognize that his decision concerning the Bay of Pigs was a grievous error.

It is true that Khrushchev might have said that if you object to my being 90 miles from your coast, I object to your being in Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and West Berlin—places even nearer to my border.

But had Khrushchev said that, our answer could have been that our propensity to the Russian border is the result of World War II which we entered mistakenly to rescue Soviet Russia as well as other countries from the Nazi terror.

On the other hand, the United States policy in Latin America is based on the Monroe Doctrine which Russia, as a continuing nation, has incontrovertibly accepted since 1823.

If such conversations ever occurred, they are not recorded. Instead we appear to be on the verge of war with Soviet Russia over Cuba. One of the factors for optimism is that in the past, Soviet Russia has played on two fronts, expecting the West to fall into a trap.

This happened during the Berlin Airlift when Soviet Russia established Red China as a satellite. It could be that in the Soviet mind, the United States can be led to compromise by giving up Berlin or possibly Iran on condition that Russia give up Cuba.

It is too late for that because it is impossible to trust Russia or the Communist Party of any country.

The American difficulty arises from two phases:

1. It seems quite impossible for most Americans to realize that although the Russians are not 10 feet tall, nor do they all have superior intellects, they have in 45 years achieved a remarkable current position and an even greater potential in industry, science and art.

They have recognized a simple fact, well understood in the United States since the day of Horace Mann, that a nation cannot progress unless its people are adequately educated.

It is in the field of education rather than in diplomacy or industry that Soviet Russia is giving us a race. Their educational methods are focussed on national necessity although they have not neglected humanistic subjects.

It is silly not to recognize what they have accomplished and how, particularly if we have to fight them. To fight an enemy, it is necessary first to know the enemy. The American people, including many officials, do not know the Russians and it is sad to say, many do not want to.

2. What is even more important is for Americans to realize that blaming Eisenhower or Kennedy will not solve any problems. The Russians have a political system which makes it possible for a decision to be made. Within the margins of realism, Russian foreign policy has been consistent and constant since about 1920.

The United States from the time of George Washington to Theodore Roosevelt had a fairly consistent and constant foreign policy:

1. No entangling alliances;
2. Freedom of the Seas;
3. Protective Tariff;
4. Monroe Doctrine;
5. Open Door Policy.

Then we became involved and our policy became uncertain and confused. Since Woodrow Wilson the United States has been used by friend and foe and it is time to bring ourselves out of this situation by returning to a fixed and continuous policy.

The Pennsylvania Story

The Tolling Of Political Bells

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — The tolling of the bell from yesterday unquestionably has smitten Pennsylvania Democrats in this critical election year 1962.

The tremors within party ranks — both on and off Capitol Hill — date back to the late 1930's when then Governor George H. Earle was winding up his administration.

The venerable Mr. Earle was a most distinctive sort of person — only the second Democrat in the history of Pennsylvania to don gubernatorial shoes.

However — it was in the closing days of the Democratic Earle Administration that the scandal flag was hoisted atop Capitol Hill resulting in much investigation, probing, hurling of political bricks, much publicity — and ultimately a grand jury probe.

From all this only one indictment held up — that involving the Secretary of Highways. (The indictment against the then Secretary of the Commonwealth — one David Leo Lawrence — was thrown out when he was acquitted.)

It is perhaps significant to note that the reign of George H. Earle was the last Democratic one thereafter until 1955.

Just how much influence the scandal charges had in the subsequent gubernatorial election hoodlums that sent Republican administrations into office one after another, is of course moot and continually open to debate. Nevertheless — most Democrats feel that it unquestionably was a heavy influencing factor and quite naturally perhaps are fetchingly sensitive on the subject. In a nutshell they're not the slightest bit interested in running through another scandal affair to prove the point one way or the other!

Enter gubernatorial election year 1962.

Down Philadelphia — way they've been having some scandals, some convictions and a host of charges and allegations — all brewing during the tenure of a Democratic mayor.

This in itself wouldn't be of too much concern to the rest of the state — except for the fact that the Democratic mayor in question happens to be the chap running as the Democratic candidate for Governor this year: Richardson Dilworth.

The critical point facing anguished, nettled and disturbed Democratic leaders: are they up against the very same thing — alas — that they faced during the Democratic Earle Administration back in the late 1930's?

The Philadelphia thing has gone so far that a special grand jury probe has been ordered by a common pleas court judge (a Republican) after another jurist (a Democrat) had denied a similar grand jury plea.

Democrats have exercised every means at their disposal to halt the grand jury probe of their Democratic city administration — to the point now of appealing the case to the State Supreme Court.

The importance in all this now lies in the fact that regardless of whether the high court sustains or rejects the lower court's grand jury activation action — the nub of question and taint are still there, to be personified perhaps even more intensely than before as the campaign progresses.

The obvious plea or charge on the part of campaign-minded Republicans: if Democrats in Philadelphia had nothing to hide why fight the grand jury investigations?

Pennsylvania Democrats are indeed approaching the exasperating and understandably exasperating dilemma they faced a quarter of a century ago.

The tolling of the bell from yesterday could result in quite a clattering bong!

Veteran's Guide

Q — Did the State of Connecticut pay a cash bonus to its World War I veterans?

A — No. Connecticut paid a bonus to World War I and to Korean Conflict veterans. Both were for $10 for each month of active service with a maximum payment of $300.

Q — Will the boys that are in the U.S. Army now be entitled to the Government loans when they return to civilian life, as were the boys who were in World War II?

A — Not under the present laws. Such rights came to an end after the close of the Korean Conflict on January 31, 1955.

Mysterious Arms Shipment Disturbs U. S. Intelligence

Washington, Sept. 19 — A mysterious Soviet arms shipment to Cuba has U. S. intelligence and defense officials both deeply puzzled and very concerned.

A large lead casket, weight of which left deep tracks in an unopened road, was unloaded from the Soviet freighter "Hortensia" when it docked at the Cuban port of Casilda on August 9.

Accompanied by 800 Soviet military "Palibearers," the heavily guarded "mystery" cargo was rushed to Banes, which is now ringed by heavy Soviet military and ground-to-air missiles.

The town of Banes and port of Casilda have been closed for weeks to all Cubans, even Castro's military personnel. More than 500 Cuban families were evacuated from these areas more than three months ago.

The heavy lead casket looked very much like the storage crates used by the U. S. military to ship nuclear warheads from one part of the country to the other, according to a Defense Intelligence Agency's analysis of information from eyewitness Cuban refugees.

This alarming similarity has caused a number of veteran intelligence officers to warn that the lead casket is either being used to store nuclear warheads or for the storage of gas-type shells.

The latter estimate is based on three separate reports from Cuban refugees that poison gas has been unloaded from Soviet ships and is being stored at secret Cuban bases.

The DIA now estimates that there are approximately 2,300 Soviet military "advisers" and "technicians" stationed at the Banes base. If this and the other DIA estimates are anywhere near accurate, Banes will be added to the "war time" priority target list of the Strategic Air Command. The new Soviet air base at San Antonio de los Banos was added to SAC's target list last week after a squadron of Soviet MIG-21's, the Red's fastest jet interceptor, showed up at the base.

Already, more than 500 Soviet pilots and ground personnel are at the base and more Russian personnel are reported to be enroute. At least one Soviet TU-16, medium jet bomber, has been photographed on the runway.

Both are the Soviet TU-16 "Badger" and the MIG-21s, with special bomb holding equipment, are capable of carrying nuclear weapons to any city in the U.S.

A Lobby At Work — House investigators, probing the nation's largest tax-exempt foundations, have turned up an interesting letter showing how one of these organizations is using its money to influence the thinking of college professors and students on "economic subjects."

The letter, now in the files of Representative Wright Patman's small business committee, was addressed to a number of East Coast and Midwest colleges, and comes from the newly formed Southwest Foundation for Economic Education, Houston, Texas.

Signed by Miss B. A. Zimmelman, executive secretary, the letter offers to furnish speakers and pay their transportation and stopover expenses for all types of college forums, stating:

"The Southwestern Foundation for Economic Education was established and financed recently for the purposes of hearing or underwriting the cost to groups such as yours, of securing outstanding speakers for your community and appropriate forums, to develop a public consciousness of economic subjects."

The letter goes on to point out that "The incorporators of the foundation viewed with concern the Soviet Union's growing success in conducting an economic war against the U. S. and other nations, and the ignorance of both the American people and government leaders about this economic warfare. They also believe that, given adequate knowledge and 'weapons,' American industry, agriculture, and labor can compete successfully in the struggle for world markets, with the increasing productivity of Western Europe, Japan, and the Soviet bloc."

Noting the lack of funds for university groups to use to obtain nationally known speakers, the foundation's letter suggests:

"If you think your faculty members and/or student body would be interested in having a speaker from our roster address them during the coming months, I would appreciate your advising me accordingly and giving me the names of those persons whom I should contact. The SFEE will pay direct air transportation and stopover living expenses for the speaker. The only request we make is that we be sent a copy of our record and use of the talk by the speaker we provide."

"War is fought not only with guns, but — often more effectively — in the market place, through the channels of international trade and commerce. Many professors and students' groups and classes in the various colleges and universities, who are interested in and should know about recent developments on the world economic scene, often cannot afford the cost of bringing good speakers to their local and regional meetings. The Southwestern Foundation for Economic Education was established to defray these costs."

This and other examples of how both "right-wing" and "left-wing" foundations are now engaged in trying to influence the "minds" of all Americans on crucial issues of the day will be highlighted in Representative Patman's third blockbusting report on the tax-exempt foundations. The report is scheduled to be made public in October.

Mental Health Program Lauded

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Treatment of mentally ill persons in the state is hampered greatly by a shortage of trained personnel, Gov. Lawrence said Tuesday.

"Quite obviously, the shortage of personnel cannot be solved overnight," Lawrence told employees of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Leech Farm. He added:

"It takes too much time, too much conscientious training to hope for this. But we have made a truly impressive beginning — and, with time, we will succeed in attracting the right number of skilled persons to the mental health system."

Lawrence noted the state has developed training programs in its institutions in the services of psychiatry, psychology, nursing, patient activities and social service.

In an earlier address to the convention of the North American Securities Administrators, Lawrence said the "ups and downs" of the stock market should be studied "rationally and with a sincere desire to remedy whatever defects exist, rather than for sensationalism."

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

"There's no resting place down here" might well have been my theme song during a hectic, but highly interesting day which started out with the record breaking attendance at the Children's Aid Society luncheon — and ended with an equally heartening turnout for the Crippled Children's dinner.

Maybe this is going to be a banner year for welfare work. Presiding for the first time at CAS, Sig Butler, was highly encouraged and promptly put everybody to work. At Crippled Children, Ruth Brown could turn over an efficient and solvent organization to Dr. James Reed.

However, Jim Reed and I have both promised to read notices more carefully in the future. It seems we both took it for granted that the supper would be at the hotel and went wandering around in separate orbits getting into all kinds of strange dinners before we independently decided that it must be at the Y.

In between, there was the faculty wives' tea at the college which was fun — but confusing because so many of the new women on the faculty and new wives are so young that they look like college Freshmen instead of Freshman members of the club.

And it was equally delightful to be able to greet a former member — Mrs. Arthur Helmes, who hasn't changed a bit and who hopes to get back more often now that she's establishing a base in Easton.

Another delightful encounter, quite by chance, was with Peg Fyle who has resigned from teaching and is having a wonderful time at Valley Forge and visiting around. She is currently the guest of Eva Brodsky.

Which reminds me that I have guests of my own who must be wondering if when I said "My home is yours" is meant that I was moving out completely. Breakfast and a midnight snack — that was my total contribution as a hostess.

Let's talk Fashion

There's a back-to-business bustle about Main St., these days—college girls, career girls and clubwomen are getting geared for action, the most discriminating of them, of course, in ready-for-action clothes from our racks.

Going great guns right now, are the jumpers—so right for office or classroom and, with a variety of coordinated blouses, a whole wardrobe in themselves. Most popular are the ones that look like suede but are much more practical.

The clubwomen are going in for jacket costumes this year, particularly the double knits, having learned that a jacket that comes off can be a blessing when the temperature suddenly soars, or the heat in the Mansion House hits a new high.

The social season is promising to hit a new high, too, with the first of the Fall parties starting early—a fact we fortunately anticipated since the first of our cocktail and "dressy" dresses are already in. For business or pleasure, we've gone back too—our business being to make you look pretty.

Visit To Fish Hatchery Prompts Fish Recipes

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

If you've ever considered leaving Pennsylvania, take a trip through our state and count your blessings. We had the opportunity of taking a trip to Penn State and Gettysburg last weekend and the scenery was as breathtaking as any I've seen throughout the country.

We stopped to visit a former resident of Monroe County, Keen Buss and family. Keen has charge of an experimental trout hatchery out-side of State College and was kind enough to take us through the hatchery and explain his work to us.

I was fascinated with the bright red trout that are fed shrimp heads and another batch that are brilliantly colored from being fed sweet red peppers, and sometimes hot peppers! When we spotted an occasional jet black trout, Keen explained that it was blind; the color of a trout's skin is effected by its environment, so that if it lives in total darkness, it turns black. If only one eye is blind, the opposite half of the body is black while the other retains its natural color.

I guess I've eaten trout ever since I was old enough to chew, and have always loved them. But when it comes to other kind of fish, I must admit it is not one of my favorite foods, but my nutrition training makes me conscious of the fact that the iodine and Vitamin D content of fish is necessary in our diets.

It's a good rule to have fish once a week. Mary Jane McCluskey asked me for fish recipes, and I told her one of my favorite is a quick but tasty hash made with fish sticks.

Golden Skillet Hash

1 package (12 oz.) frozen Potato Patties
1 package (8 oz.) frozen Fish Sticks or Fish Bites
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup butter
Salt and Pepper

Defrost frozen fish sticks or bites and potato patties until they are soft enough to chop into small pieces. Add chopped onion and mix together. Grease skillet with the 1/4 cup butter. Then pack mixture into skillet. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat until brown crust forms on bottom, about 12 minutes. Cut part way through and fold like an omelet. Slide onto hot platter. Serve with catsup or chili sauce, if desired. Yield: 4 servings.

I often buy salmon or swordfish steaks and broil them smeared with lemon butter. Pour the juice of a lemon over softened butter and mix together until creamy. Spread on the fish, broil until golden brown, turn and repeat. These steaks usually take about 7-8 minutes per side.

Here's a little different casserole you might like:

Sunburst Salmon Casserole
1 can Refrigerated Biscuits or Sesame Dinner rolls
1 can (9 1/2 oz.) salmon
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup
1/4 cup milk

1 1/2 cup cooked, drained peas
1 cup shredded cheese
Combine salmon, soup, milk, peas and half of cheese in a 2 quart casserole. Arrange biscuits or individual sesame rolls around edge. (If desired, use 6 rolls on casserole and bake remainder.)

Bake at 400 degrees for 20-25 minutes until golden brown. Sprinkle remaining cheese on top; bake 5 minutes longer. (Tuna fish can be substituted for salmon if desired.)

Here's another quick and easy casserole. You can use your own leftover macaroni and cheese in place of canned.

Tuna-Macaroni Casserole
2 cans (15 1/2 oz. size) macaroni with cheese sauce
1 can (7 oz.) tuna, drained
1 tomato, peeled, coarsely chopped
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons fresh bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Preheat oven to 375. Combine macaroni, tuna, tomato, thyme, and pepper in 2 quart casserole; toss gently until well mixed. Toss bread crumbs with butter and parsley; sprinkle over casserole, and bake 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Ever-Welcome Class

The Ever Welcome Class of Christ Hamilton Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Harold Dennis on Friday at 8 with Miss Edith Young and Mrs. Clair Smith assisting.

That stew will benefit if you cook it in a tightly covered kettle. If the cover doesn't fit tightly, improvise by using a piece of foil under it.

Seed Plaques

Seed Plaques For Autumn

Seeds of some kind are plentiful all year so it's always time to make a seed plaque. A background of wood or cardboard, mullage or glue-all, plus plenty of seeds are the chief needs.

Seeds are something you can find at any time of year—in the garden when vegetables and flowers are maturing or in the supermarket where dried seeds are sold for food.

The only other materials besides seeds that you need to make a plaque are: A piece of wood, cardboard or construction board on which to glue the seeds, glue-all or mullage, a soft pencil, an adhesive cloth picture hanger—and lots of imagination.

Start by finding something for the background. The plaque in the picture is an oval cut from quarter-inch plywood; but any heavy cardboard, Bristol board, or even a section cut from a fallen log will do.

Next, collect as many different kinds of seeds as you can find. Keep each kind by itself. Dry seeds are easier to handle than wet seeds, so use layers of paper towels to dry any that need it.

Perhaps the background or the kinds of seeds will suggest a design for your plaque. If not, try drawing one lightly on the background. As long as lines are not heavy they are easy to erase if you change your mind.

When the design is settled, lay seeds in place over and along the lines of the design until you're satisfied. Then remove a few seeds at a time, apply glue-all or mullage to the proper places and replace the seeds, pressing them firmly onto the background. When all have been glued on, put the plaque to dry in a safe place.

Later you can spray it with lacquer, plastic or shellac to give it a finishing touch. Paste the picture hanger on the back and you're ready to hang the plaque on the wall of your bedroom or, perhaps, use it for a birthday or Christmas gift.

SCORE with this Scoreboard Sandwich Loaf after the game when team gathers at home, served with popcorn

Bowl Them Over After The Game With Scoreboard Sandwich, Pintops

When you are planning to have the team over after the game, a scoreboard sandwich life can make them all feel like 300-game bowlers. It can be prepared early in the day and refrigerated until serving time, making it an easy company offering.

Sour cream, Provolone cheese, mild cottage and cream cheeses are included in the ingredients. A layer of dried beef slices splits two layers of filling, one of flakes of provolone cheese spiced by onion bits, parsley and pecan pieces, and the second featuring cottage cheese combined with hard-cooked eggs and green pepper.

Cream cheese softened with milk makes the frosting. Piped from a decorator's tube, the names of the team members are written in a vertical row along the left border. The remaining sandwich is divided into the columns of a score sheet to represent frames. Fill in the score, and be sure to include some strikes and spares.

Carrying out the bowling theme, serve it with Popcorn Pin Tops, made by combining melted marshmallows and butter with semi-sweet chocolate bits and popcorn on glasses of milk.

Scoreboard Sandwich Loaf
12 x 15" serving tray — 15-18 servings.

FILLING NO. 1

1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 cup grated Provolone cheese
1/2 cup chopped pecans
2 1-lb. loaves unsliced white bread
1 1-lb. loaf unsliced whole wheat bread
1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream

FILLING NO. 2

1-1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
Salt and pepper to taste
2 1/2-3-oz. sliced dried beef
5 tomatoes, thinly sliced
2 8-oz. pkgs. cream cheese, softened

Milk, add as necessary
Blend ingredients of each filling together and set aside. Trim crusts from bread. Slice each loaf of bread lengthwise into 6 long thin slices. On serving tray lay 4 slices of white bread side by side and 2 slices end to end across the top to form a rectangle about 10 x 15". Spread with 1/2 cup sour cream, then Filling No. 1 topped with sliced dried beef. Place whole wheat bread over filling; spread with 1/2 cup sour cream, top with Filling No. 2 and lay tomato slices over filling. Cover with 6 slices of white bread. Blend cream cheese with remaining sour cream and enough milk to make of spreading consistency. Color a small portion green. Use to frost and decorate the sandwich as a scoreboard.

Popcorn Pin Tops
6 servings

1 lb. marshmallows (48)
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1 tablespoon water
1 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate bits
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 quarts popcorn

Melt marshmallows and butter with water over low heat, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minute. Add chocolate bits and vanilla and stir until completely melted. Blend chocolate syrup into popcorn. Lightly butter hands and form into pin heads.

Readers Keep Sharing Personal Philosophies

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

You readers are making our "Nugget File" bulge the way you send me your thoughts-worth-remembering!

Some of you say in your letters, too, that as we publish these thoughts you clip these helpful philosophies and make a scrapbook of them. So today, straight from our "Nugget File," is a "Lucky 13" for you, garnered from thoughts you've sent along as well as from people I know.

Give Bonts
1. You have a better chance of doing well with any project if you plan to give people a bit more than they expected, a little more than you promised, a little cheaper than they'd anticipated.

2. Ideas won't work unless you do.
3. Never miss an opportunity to do a kindness, only partly because it's good business. Do it mostly because it's an ego-builder which the Lord knows we all need in these competitive times. It's one way to beat automation.

Mental Outlook
4. Your mental outlook is the big thing that can save you when you have fears about how you're doing on your job.

5. Wishing, loafing and griping will get you nowhere. Work and study will.

6. To keep moving ahead, refuse to be satisfied with what you have done or with what you have been. Instead, take the things that you've been doing and try to do them better.

7. It's not enough merely to talk about what you think you can do. You have to prove it.

8. Get down on your hands and knees and scrub floors if that's the only thing that will get you started in the field where you want to be.

9. Quality is a salable commodity.

10. Don't cut yourself off from opportunity because you feel a small business can never compete with the large corporations in business. This isn't always true. If you have skill, business talent and are a real pro, a small business sometimes has an advantage for customers because in a small business everyone who uses your services gets the top man or woman.

Act Now

11. It's the way we channel our opportunities from where we stand now that counts. And it's what we do with the circumstances we face today that determines the circumstances we'll face five years from now.

12. Everyone has problems! And not even people who seem lucky are completely without them, regardless of how green the grass around them looks.

13. Aim for the top! It's easier up there!

Try Chinese Exercises To Harmonize Body And Mind

Exercise is the new American tranquilizer. But the newest of these is actually an old Oriental one called Tai Chi Ch'uan.

Dancer Sophia Delza, an American who learned Tai Chi Ch'uan in China teaches this exercise at the United Nations.

She says that people waste their efforts the Western way, "by trying to reduce buttocks, thighs or another area without manipulating the whole body."

She recently published a book on Tai Chi Ch'uan called "Body and Mind in Harmony." Philosopher Chang San Feng of the Sung Dynasty (11th Century) is credited with developing it. The system activates the body, and develops physical, emotional and mental well-being.

The art requires that you move slowly but continuously. The full program of 108 basic steps, as done by Miss Delza, takes 22 minutes. When mastered it puts the smallest joint and largest muscle of the body into play. The simplest movement is effective, she says.

The philosophy of Tai Chi Ch'uan is to control energy rather than to strain muscles and exert oneself excessively as in Western exercises that often emphasize hard, tense movements.

"The exercises are a contrast of strong and soft movements, like the flowing of a river, like the circulation moving in your body," Miss Delza explains. These are not designed symmetrically such as our American exercises with 10 times for each leg. There are many different patterns for each side.

Here is an example, a simple exercise to tone the wrist and muscle of the arm:

1. Raise right arm forward shoulder high with loose elbow, bent wrist, fingers pointed upward with palm facing downward.

2. Circle hand outward to right, then bend hand downward with palm facing inward.

3. Then circle over to the left, and inward with fingers still facing inward and fingers pointed upward.

4. Turn palm outward, so that it is once again in the starting position.

Try to keep arm still, while the hand is moving. Do these movements with the left hand. Then circle both hands at the same time. Reverse circle making an inward rotation.

One entitled "White Stork Flaps Its Wings" is especially good for the waist, claims Miss Delza. This movement should be done with strength and firmness, she advises. You should feel the hard contraction in muscles of upper arms, contrasting with light and soft movements that precede it. It should feel as if you are holding or pressing a huge ball between elbows and hands. Knees and hands move together, she says.

Try it.
Bend knees. Place right arm in a curve shoulder high, and palm of left hand toward inner curve of right elbow.

Raise body and straighten knees. Lift right arm to a position above forehead. Lower left arm with palm down to front of left thigh. Wrist should be bent.

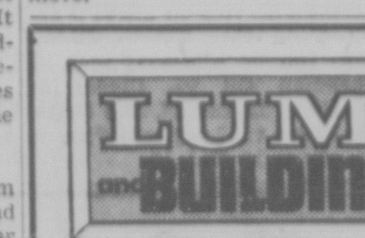

Keep right arm above forehead, bending torso forward down. Move left arm out perpendicular to the floor with palm down. Twist torso to the left, keeping body low.

Straighten torso up. Bring left arm to shoulder height, bending wrist with fingers pointed upward.

Bend knees. Keep back straight, move both hands, bending wrist so that palms face diagonally downward. You should feel the muscles in the upper arms contract as you move.

Cardinals Trim S-U For First Victory

SWITZWATER —The Cardinals of Pocono Mountain Joint High School gained their first victory of the 1962 grid campaign yesterday via a 7-6 win over the Stroud Union JV's.

The win for Coach Allen Shollenberger's eleven gave the team a 1-1 record to date. The Cards dropped a 6-0 decision in their opener to the Pen Argyl JV's a week ago on the same field here.

Behind 6-0 entering the final period, the Pocono Mountain club took quick advantage of a Stroud Union fumble with Center Ron Vican's recovery.

Derrick Drives

From there, Tom Derrick lugged the leather for 25 yards on three consecutive carries, eventually getting the ball down to the Stroud Union 5-yard line. Brian Yarborough, one of the shining lights on the PM football scene, then slashed off tackle for the winning tally — and the team's first score of the season.

After battling the visiting Stroudsburg unit even during the first half, the Cardinals fell behind by a 6-0 count in the third quarter when Stroud Union's John Muller, playing a stellar game for the losers, intercepted a Cardinal aerial on the 25-yard line of enemy terrain and returned 10 yards to the 15.

Stubborn Defense

A stubborn Cardinal defensive unit held the young Mountaineers to a fourth-and-three situation, but the visitors garnered a first down on the Cards' one-foot line from where Quarterback Muller carried over for the first score of the game.

Thus, when Yarborough chugged the Cards' first score of the young season in the fourth stanza, it remained for the accurate foot of Derrick to hoist the ball over the uprights to earn the victory.

Shollenberger's squad stayed on the ground most of the game, racking up 99 yards rushing while completing but one pass in four attempts.

The Mountaineer JV's, meanwhile, gained 70 yards rushing while completing four of nine passes for a total of 27 yards.

The Cardinals also lost 50 yards on penalties, two of them coming from roughing the kicker.

Ward Rallies In Near Upset

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Harvie Ward, two-time former champion from San Francisco, won three of the last five holes Tuesday to avoid a spectacular upset and joined co-favorite Deane Beaman and Billy Joe Patton in leading the advance into the third round of the 62nd U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

Two down after 13 holes to a 22-year-old unknown from Hamilton, Tex., Holly Toler, the North Carolina-born champion of 1953 and 1956 hitched up his belt and pulled out the match with a birdie and four pars.

Break Through Comes

The breakthrough came on the 433-yard, par 4 18th hole at the sun-drenched No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club when the tall, lean Toler pushed his drive well to the right into a deep trap. He came out weakly, hit to the back of the green, and missed the 25-foot chip that might have matched par's routine par 4.

The last-ditch rally by Ward kept intact a day of relatively form-following results at the 7,051-yard, par 36-72 Pinehurst layout that was covered by rain and upsets in Monday's first round of this all match play championship.

NCAA champion Kermit Zarley of the University of Houston was upset; the 1946 champion Ted Bishop of Weston, Mass., was knocked out when he lost four of the last five holes.

Weather Improves

But the weather improved and so did the play of the "elite," including 1960 champion Benam, who crushed Jim Cleveland of Atlanta 6 and 3, and Patton, the happy Tar Heel from Morganton, who played just as hard as he had to win a 4 and 2 decision over Bill Ferguson of Des Moines.

Charlie Smith of Gastonia, former North and South Amateur champion and red-hot this summer, stayed high among the contenders when he scored an 8 and 6 victory over Harton Semple of Sewickley, Pa., and was two under par in the process. The 31-year-old Smith is now five under par for 25 holes played so far—the best performance in the field.

Dick Chapman, the 1940 champion and a long-time Pinehurst player, survived seven one-putt greens by young Jimmy Allen of Athens, Ga., shot a steady 75 and won 1 up.

The drawing title Virginian, 19-year-old Ronnie Geringer of Newport News, also proved his first round upset of two-time former champ Charlie Coe was no fluke and routed Dave Hasslen of Oronville, Minn., 6 and 4.

Zarley's conqueror was 18-year-old Jay Sigel, the Pennsylvania champion from Philadelphia, who closed it out 1 up after winning four of the first seven holes.

The 64 winners go into morning third round matches Wednesday, and the 32 survivors then have a quick lunch and head out again in the fourth round. The fifth round and the quarter-finals are scheduled Thursday, the 36-hole semifinals on Friday and the 36-hole final on Saturday.

Irate Aussies Drive Gretel To Victory

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A crew of irate Australians, stung by Yankee taunts, drove challenger Gretel to a dramatic 300-yard victory over defender Weatherly Tuesday and knotted the famed America's Cup yacht racing series at one race each.

Despite their surprise triumph, the Australians again exercised their privilege of asking for a day's delay and so the third race now is scheduled for Thursday, weather permitting.

Stunning Blow

Tuesday's defeat, by 47 seconds, was a stunning blow to the confident Americans, beaten for the first time in a race since T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavor of England won the first two races against Harold Vanderbilt's Rainbow before losing the next four in a row back in 1934.

The Americans never have lost an America's Cup series in this world series of yachting which was begun in 1851. Prior to Tuesday, the defenders had beaten back 13 challengers in succession.

The surprising Gretel, counted out and ridiculed after losing Saturday's opening race by 3 minutes 46 seconds, got the jump on Weatherly at the start, led briefly and stayed near the defender's stern most of the first two legs before taking charge at the final mark of the 24-mile triangular race.

Crosses Line

The sleek, white-hulled Australian challenger, her white spinnaker billowing, crossed the finish line in 2 hours, 46 minutes, 58 seconds. Weatherly's time was 2:47:45.

All of this victory margin was built up on the final, downwind leg of 8 miles. In fact, Gretel was trailing by 14 seconds as the turn for home was made.

But here the fates of racing and a daring maneuver by Jack Sturrock, skipper of the Gretel, paid off handsomely. Trailing the defender, Gretel swung wide around the mark and hoisted her white spinnaker in 10 seconds. That cut off some of Weatherly's breeze and the Americans, in their haste to get away from such a position, were slow in dropping their jib.

Twins Lose To Bunning, Tigers, 2-1

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Jim Bunning, virtually invincible in the tight spots, pitched a 2-1 victory Tuesday over Minnesota to snap a four-game Twins' winning streak and tighten the noose on the Minnesota Twins' gasping pennant hopes.

The defeat dropped the Twins four games behind the New York Yankees in the loss column with Minnesota having only nine games remaining.

The loss was particularly disheartening to the Twins. Not only were they Tiger runs unearned, but the Minnesota left 11 base runners stranded and four times in the last six innings had the tying run as far as second.

Bunning rose to the occasion all four times to subdue Minnesota threats, however, and chalked up his 18th win of the year against eight losses. Terry Fox relieved Bunning in the ninth and preserved the Tiger triumph.

TWO NEW convertibles will join the Mercury Comet line in 1963. The power-operated soft-tops will be available in the custom series and in the bucket seat S-22 series. Significant engineering advances developed originally for the big car field have been incorporated into the new Comet and substantially reduce the time and expense of auto maintenance. The major lubrication cycle has been extended from 1,000 to 36,000 miles with minor lubrication intervals of 6,000 miles. High-detergent, factory-installed, engine oil and improved oil filter combine to extend the initial checkup period from 1,000 to 6,000 miles. The new Mercury Comets will be on display at Ray Price Motors, Inc., 353 Main St., Stroudsburg, on Thursday October 4.

More Local Families In Upper Income Brackets

RIISING INCOMES in Stroudsburg in the last few years have resulted in significant shifts in family income brackets.

Many local families, formerly in the $4,000 to $7,000 category, are now to be found in the $7,000 to $10,000 group. Others, who had net earnings previously of $2,500 to $4,000, have moved up a notch and entered the $4,000 to $7,000 bracket.

The upward shift has been taking place at all points along the income scale. As a result, there are now more families than ever in the middle-or-better brackets and fewer at the lower end.

Horn Offers JFK Ideas On Cuba

WOODROW (Woody) Horn, Republican candidate for Congress from the 15th district, yesterday wired President Kennedy with a three-point program to deal with the Cuban crisis.

It includes a naval blockade of Cuba, efforts to stop our Allies from providing Russia with ships for Cuban trade, and recognition of a Cuban Government in exile. The text of Horn's wire is as follows:

"I believe it imperative that the United States begin hard-hitting negotiations with our Allies to stop shipment of war goods to Cuba. I also urge that you invoke the Monroe Doctrine and establish a sea blockade around Cuba expressly to keep war materials from being shipped to that island. I recommend also that you give official recognition to a responsible Cuban Government in exile. Let's not substitute Moscow Doctrine for Monroe Doctrine."

The GOP candidate, speaking at a meeting of the State Belt Citizens for Horn Committee at the Village Barn in Portland, said the ugly pattern of Communism has unfolded in Cuba. "First, revolution introduced Communism," he explained. "Then Russia stabilizes and consolidates control. Then the area becomes a springboard for subversion or invasion of other countries." He said the failure to act at the Bay of Pigs was a tragic blunder.

He said the Kennedy administration has interpreted the Monroe Doctrine to be an expression of what we don't like in the Western Hemisphere instead of a flat statement of what we will not tolerate from would-be aggressors. He said since 1823 the Doctrine has turned back despots who had designs on Latin America.

Horn contrasted the Eisenhower handling of the Lebanon crisis in 1958 when the Marines went in, averted war and upset the Communist timetable in the Middle East, with the "hand-wringing" approach of the Kennedy Administration in Cuba.
